Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: in the brief description of the drawings, Applicant indicates that Figure 2 is a sectional view of Figure 1, taken generally along line 2-2 of Figure 1. There is no such sectional lines in Figure 1.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Guy et al. (6,164,441; hereinafter Guy'441). Guy'441 discloses a package (20) comprising an insert (100) and a wrapper (24) formed from a flexible polymeric sheet for enclosing the insert and a group of articles (77) when the package is assembled (Figures 5-7). The wrapper formed from of a lightweight, flexible material and having a window portion (34, 40) that is removable to enable access to the group of articles within the wrapper. The package of Guy'441 is inherently capable for containing a group of toilet seat covers and the package is capable received in a dispenser.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3728

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 15-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Guy et al. (6,164,441; hereinafter Guy'441) in view of Canno (3,896,966). Guy'441 discloses the package (20) as above having all the limitations of the claims except for the insert being made from cardboard or card stock or similar material. Canno teaches a dispensing package (10) comprising a stiff insert (34) may be made from cardboard (column 2, lines 19-23). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Canno to modify the insert of Guy'441 so the insert is made from cardboard to reduce the cost of manufacture and it also would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify the wrapper of Guy'441 so the wrapper is made from low density polypropylene since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

6. Claims 1, 3, 4, and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Guy et al. (6,164,441; hereinafter Guy'441) in view of Wilkniss (1,999,676). Guy'441 discloses a package (20) comprising an insert (100) and a wrapper (24) formed from a flexible polymeric sheet for enclosing the insert and a group of articles (77) when the package is assembled (Figures 5-7). The wrapper formed from of a lightweight, flexible material and having a window portion (34, 40) that is removable to enable access to the group of articles within the wrapper. Guy'441 also discloses the other claimed limitations except for the group of articles being a group of toilet seat covers. Wilkniss teaches a package (21) for holding a group of toilet seat covers (10). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made in view of Wilkniss to modify the package of Guy'441 so the group of articles comprises a group of toilet seat covers to allow the package of Guy'441 for holding various articles. As to claim 4, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify the wrapper of Guy'441 so the wrapper is made from low density polypropylene having a thickness of about one millimeter or less to reduce the cost of manufacture since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

7. Claims 2, 5-7 and 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the references as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Canno (3,896,966). Guy'441 further fails to show the insert being made from cardboard or card stock or similar material. Canno teaches a dispensing package (10) comprising a stiff insert (34) may be made from cardboard (column 2, lines 19-23). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art in view of Canno to modify the insert of Guy'441 so the insert is made from cardboard to reduce the cost of manufacture.
